TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Mr. Viacheslav Danilov visited my lab for about four months (April-July 2017). I had thus the opportunity to collaborate with him to solve biomedical image processing and analysis problems related to catheter detection and tracking inside the heart by means of pattern recognition methodologies. Though his stay was relatively short, he succeeded to grasp swiftly the theory behind the methods, design a valid experimental setup and produce interesting results. He is autonomous and punctual. He integrates and socializes easily with team members. It was a pleasure collaborating with him.

Sincerely,
